NEW YORK & SYDNEY (SEPT. 17, 2020) — Exiger, the GRC firm transforming the global fight against financial crime and fraud, is opening its eleventh office in Sydney, Australia to address growing demand for its technology-enabled solutions purpose-built to manage complex regulatory and risk issues at scale.

“Exiger has served many Australia-based companies since its beginning in 2013. With the increasing complexity of global regulatory demands, we look forward to having an in-country presence to better understand the needs of the Australian market, partner more closely and deploy the best resources Exiger has to offer,” said Dan Banes, Managing Director and Asia-Pacific Regional Chair.

At a time when the global economy is experiencing unprecedented uncertainty, many compliance teams are feeling the effects of reduced budgets and headcount while the criticality of their function is increasing at a rapid pace. From tech-enabled risk intelligence to managed services, Exiger is revolutionizing the way companies are managing risk.

Mike Cherkasky, Exiger’s Chairman said, “Exiger is fortunate to be expanding our footprint in this environment. We are thrilled to open our next office in Australia where many of our valued clients are based. Globally, companies are experiencing a level of consultant fatigue. We recognize the need to provide solutions that will introduce a more sustainable and cost-effective way forward . . . in other words, we are focused on leaving our clients’ operations in better shape than we find them.”

Exiger will be hosting a virtual launch event to discuss best practices for building compliance resiliency and unveil new features of its award-winning technology. To learn more, sign up here.
